

NEWS

WHERE I LIVE

- Barking & Dagenham
- Barnet
- Bexley
- Brent
- Bromley
- Camden
- Croydon
- Docklands
- Enfield
- Greenwich
- Hackney
- Hammersmith & Fulham
- Haringey
- Havering
- Islington
- Kensington & Chelsea
- Newham
- Redbridge
- Tower Hamlets
- Westminster

Showbiz

- Sienna Miller on her baby joy
- London singer Juan Zelada in money-back guarantee to fans
- Katie Price launches new swimwear in London - but she won't wear it

London Faberge Big Egg Hunt letterbox egg stolen

Monday, February 27, 2012
7:39 AM

Recommend 2 Tweet 1

One of the eggs on display in London for the Faberge Big Egg Hunt charity event remains missing, presumed stolen.

The Post Box Egg (front), designed by Benjamin Shine, went on display as part of the charity Faberge Big Egg Hunt

ARTICLE CONTINUES BELOW

Free Ancestry Research
Find your ancestry and create a family tree for free!
www.myheritage.com

AdChoices

ADVERTISEMENT

Around 200 large fibreglass eggs have been placed across the capital to raise money for the Action for Children and Elephant Family charities.

Organisers of the egg hunt reported two of the eggs missing over the weekend.

Police recovered Natasha Law's egg, called Hatch, on Saturday night.

But the Post Box Egg, designed by

